Landis Relocates Warehouse Operations to State-of-the-Art Facility

Company Maintains Strategic Reading, PA Location; Seamless Transition for All Customer Programs

(READING, PA) February 23, 2010 – Landis Company, a leader in warehousing, fulfillment, and logistics services, today announced the opening of its new warehouse facility and operational headquarters at 1002 Patriot Parkway in Reading. The 105,000 foot facility is fully bonded and provides over 13,000 pallet positions, as well as significant bulk materials storage space, making it well-suited to support a wide range of Landis' customer requirements.

With features that include 35 foot ceilings, steel reinforced walls, and food grade storage space, Landis' new warehouse is a premier facility for demanding fulfillment programs. Location just one mile from the company's former warehouse, the facility also enables Landis to maintain its strategic Reading location – continuing to make it a cost-effective hub for customers' shipping needs in Berks County (PA) and throughout the Eastern U.S. corridor.

Just five years old, Landis' facility supports the transportation and logistics needs of customers through 11 Dock Doors; 8 Tow Motors; and 7 Trailers with 2 Tractors. Landis also has the option to easily expand its warehouse operations within the overall 609, 000 square foot building on Patriot Parkway to support continued customer expansion.

Rob Tompkins, President and CEO of Landis Company, commented, "Entering our 15th year in business, Landis is now better positioned than ever to achieve an even higher level of growth in the third party fulfillment industry. Our new state-of-the-art warehouse facility joins with our expert staff, and powerful technology to make Landis the smart choice for high quality, reliable, and affordable fulfillment solutions."
